PROJECTS

Pintrospective

Live • Github

A Pinterest clone for visual artists, built with Ruby on Rails and Backbone.js

- Simultaneously creates and updates User model and polymorphic Image model using nested attributes and wrapped parameters.
- Hunted down n+1 queries on the index view to keep navigation snappy

ChApp Room

Live • Github

A Chat App using Node.js.

- Uses Socket.IO to add cross-browser support to websockets.
- Uses node-static to serve static files.

Do Tha Dang Thang

Live • Github

A simple Trello clone, built with Ruby on Rails and Backbone.js

- Uses jQueryUI's sortable method to enable sorting of lists and cards, which persist in the DB.
- Extends Backbone's View to support composite views, allowing cards to be rendered within lists.

EMPLOYMENT HISTORY

Product Engineer, Neo Innovation

November 2014 — Present

San Francisco, CA

As part of a cross-functional team, I work closely with designers and product managers to craft and deliver features for data-driven products. My current project is a Rails app with an Ember front-end, and I pair program on features / bugs / chores that touch the full-stack. Currently, I'm pairing with a designer, focusing on redesigning and implementing a fresh UX, which has me deep in Ember land.
